AUTOS WARNED OFF PARK TRACK

Warning:

To insure good racing on New Year's day and to get the roadbed in proper condition, the race track at Kapiolani Park has been closed to automobiles.

Barriers have been placed at different points on the track and automobiles who disregard them, do so at their own risk.

By Order,

NEW YEAR'S RACE COMMITTEE.
The above warning was issued by the New Year's race committee today. J. Walter Doyle, publicity agent for the committee, says that several machines have narrowly escaped a smashing on the track since the barriers were erected and that one auto was damaged several hundred dollars' worth.

"The autos tear the track up, and we are trying to get it into shape for a fine meet," said Doyle today. "Hence the committee has decided to warn all autos off the track."

MIXED BOOZE AND BILLIARDS

Booze and billiards will not mix, that is if the police department can prevent it.

Judge Monsarrat, heard testimony this morning which convinced him of the guilt of Nashima and Sinochi, who were alleged to have permitted promiscuous drinking of intoxicating liquor at a billiard parlor, which they operate on Beretania street.

The Japanese were assessed a fine of twenty dollars and the costs of prosecution. Deputy Detective Kellett made a little excursion along the Oriental Great White Way on Saturday night, visiting many of the billiard and pool rooms.

In one instance where minors were found on the premises, the proprietor was hauled into court, and fined for the infraction of the city and county ordinances.

When the name of Frank B. Craig was called in police court this morning, several local attorneys sat up and took immediate notice. Craig will be remembered as having figured in the case wherein he was charged with doing business as an immigration or labor agent, without having secured a license. The case arose out of the almost forgotten visit of the steamship Senator, which came down from the Coast with a view of taking away a number of Filipinos and Porto Ricans, to work in the Alaskan canneries.

The case against Craig is still pending in the supreme court, and for this reason was again moved along on the police calendar for another month.

Two Japanese charged with having opened lodging houses without first having taken out a license, were arraigned at police court. Later it developed that the defendants called at the board of health, secured their permits, and thereby avoided further prosecution.

A bunch of Filipinos and Hawaiians found in the Magoon block, where they are alleged to have been engaged in an attempt to woo fickle fortune by the seven-come-eleven route, were placed under arrest by Deputy Kellett, and his men, and this morning received nominal fines.

DON'T KNOW THEY HAVE APPENDICITIS

Many Honolulu people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful, have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. The Hollister Drug Co states if these people will try buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-I-ka, the German appendicitis remedy, they will be surprised at the QUICK benefit. A SINGLE DOSE relieves these troubles INSTANTLY.—advertisement.

CHANGE AT HAWAII.

There is a change of films at the Hawaii this evening all new and of the first order. The crowds at the Hawaii every night testify to the superiority of the films that are shown there.

The semi-open air construction of the Hawaii makes it one of the most comfortable amusement houses in the city, and Manager Noyes makes it a point to have the best in the market in the line of moving pictures.

A cheaper or more entertaining evening cannot be spent than at the Hawaii.

WHAT EMANCIPATION HAS MEANT TO THE REPUBLIC, COTTRILL'S THEME

In honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the issuing of the Proclamation of Emancipation by Abraham Lincoln, special services were held in the Central Union church last evening, at which Charles A. Cottrill, collector of internal revenue, spoke on "What Emancipation Has Meant to the Republic."

Rev. Dr. Foreman Scudder presided at the services and an excellent musical program, which was arranged especially for the occasion, was given. The church was well filled and over one hundred cadets of the Kamehameha schools, as well as body and occupying the great hall.

Cottrill's address was "What Emancipation Has Meant to the Republic." He spoke of the deeply sensible of the honor done to this great man as a Moses of his people. There is not a home in the land where the printed pages of his birth, his life and his death have not been read by youth and age. The record of his career is the common literature of the country. For more than two score years, in all lands, gifted speech has proclaimed him; the writers of history have recounted his deeds; the pen of poetry has sketched his virtues. Among all the great leaders, Lincoln stands foremost."

"Here, no such thing as human slavery has ever cursed the land, or the inhabitants thereof, and I pray God that the awful curse of racial prejudice may never secure a foothold in this the fairest land under God's heaven. I voice this hope not merely for my race variety but for all others of the various varieties who are not purely Caucasian. To my Caucasian friends I appeal for a square deal for all men and for the continuance of the splendid inter-racial feeling existing here at this time, but which is likely to be disturbed by the movements elsewhere."

Two Great Classes.

"The people of every nation are divided into two classes, the many who with backs to the sunrise worship the past—the few who work and sacrifice for the future, for the generations yet unborn, and labor to relieve the oppressed, to remove the distinctions of caste and to civilize mankind. In the Revolution, the fathers of the republic grounded their standard on the solid rock of human rights. They subscribed to the doctrine that 'All men are created equal and are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights—that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.'"

His First Object Lesson.

"On Feb. 12, 1809, a babe was born in the woods of Kentucky, amidst the hardships and poverty of pioneer life. He was schooled in the 'University of Nature.' In the spring of 1831, while still a young man, he went down the Mississippi on a flatboat. He visited New Orleans, and with some companions went about the city. He visited a slave market where men and women were being sold at auction like cattle."

"A young colored girl, one of my race, was put on the block. Young Lincoln heard the savage remarks of the bidders, the brutal words of the auctioneer. The scene filled his very soul with indignation and horror. He swore vengeance upon the unholy institution, and turning to his companions, said:

"Boys, if I ever get a chance to hit slavery, by God, I'll hit it hard."

"From first to last, Lincoln was the real leader, and kept step with events. On July 22, 1862, he called a meeting of his cabinet. When they came they found him reading Artemus Ward. Some of the cabinet were greatly displeased at this seeming lightheartedness in such serious times and were impatient to go. He then took up a document he had prepared and said: 'Gentlemen, I have called you together to notify you what I have determined to do. I want no advice, nothing can change my mind.' He then read for the first time to any living human being the Proclamation of Emancipation."

Letter to Greeley.

"On August 22, 1862, he wrote to Horace Greeley his celebrated letter, in which he said his object was 'to save the Union—with slavery if he could—without slavery if he must.' Many thought by this letter that Mr. Lincoln had deserted the cause of freedom."
